

Pro-Nazi Regime in Belgrade Out: King Peter Rules

Overthrow Comes After Night of Fatal Rioting

By The Associated Press
Yugoslavia's 17-year-old King Peter II overthrew his pro-axis regency and took the reins of government today after wild night of rioting against the kingdom's adherence to the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo alliance.

Officially unconfirmed London reports said the first act of King Peter's new government was to reject the axis.

Gen. Dusan Simovic, army chief of staff, quickly formed a new government with himself as premier.

Reports reaching Budapest said Regent Prince Paul had fled the country. Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Aleksander Cincar Markovic, who signed the axis pact in Vienna only 48 hours ago, were said to be under arrest with other cabinet members.

Many Killed and Wounded
Belgrade reports said many persons were killed and wounded in night long fighting which preceded the coup.

The new government's reported action in throwing off the axis yoke—possibly providing an excuse for German troops to march into the turbulent kingdom—coincided with a Belgrade radio broadcast ordering all reserve officers to report to their garrisons at once.

Yugoslavia is said to have mobilized 1,000,000 men in recent weeks.

In London, Prime Minister Winston Churchill greeted the coup with the fervid declaration:

"The Yugoslav nation has found its soul!"

"A resolution has taken place in Belgrade . . . arising from the wrath of a valiant and warlike race who had their country betrayed by the weakness of their rulers and foul intrigues of the axis powers".

Reliable London sources declared that Great Britain would back the new Yugoslav regime with her navy, army and air force to lay open the right flank of the German thrust into the Balkans.

The United States government sent congratulations to King Peter's new government and noted that President Roosevelt was empowered to help nations seeking to preserve their independence.

Italy withheld comment.

Communications Cut

Telephone communications with the Yugoslav capital of Belgrade were cut, Budapest reported. The last reports to come from there last night told of continued rioting and disorders in all parts of kingdom in protest against the government's action in allying the nation with the axis in Vienna.

Many of the rioters shouted "Long Live King Peter" and denounced the three regents and the cabinet on charges of selling out.

Small Attendance Forces Illinois House to Adjourn

Springfield, Ill., March 27—(AP)—The Illinois house was forced today to vote an abrupt week-end adjournment because only 72 of the 151 members answered roll call—five less than the number required to act on bills.

This prompted Rep. Peter C. Granata (R-Chicago) to nominate himself for president of the "Thursday Martyrs' club"—the group which stayed in Springfield while other representatives went home. Contending the state should pay their expenses for the futile session, Granata asked from the floor:

"Will the chair entertain a resolution to pay the expenses of the Thursday Martyrs' club for staying here Wednesday nights?"

Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg offered instead to make an example of absentees by taking a roll call for attendance so those present "will receive due credit."

"It isn't credit we want, it's cash," Granata responded.

The state pays legislators five cents a mile each week for travel to and from their homes, but does not pay their living expenses while they are in the capital. The senate has been holding only two sessions weekly, recessing on Wednesdays, while the house has been meeting three days a week.

In Control

King Peter II of Yugoslavia who has assumed control of the government, with the support of the army and marine corps, following the resignation and flight of three regents and cabinet, which signed a pact with Hitler this week. Details in adjoining column.

The War Today!

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The reported overthrow of the Yugoslav government which signed the pact of adherence to the Berlin-Rome axis is such a natural development that it scarcely is surprising.

Still, were it not for British Premier Churchill's categorical announcement of the news, one would be inclined to proceed slowly in reaching conclusions. The early report of this momentous development came from Hungary, and since that country is a member of the axis there was always the possibility that the story was propaganda to pave the way for nazi occupation of Yugoslavia to "preserve order".

In any event, Hitler may seize the opportunity for just such a move. Deterents might be the million Yugoslav troops already under arms, and the warnings which have been going out of Moscow for the Germans to go slow.

The really astonishing thing about this whole tense drama is that Prince Regent Paul and his cabinet should have allowed Hitler to stampede them into overruling the will of their people. The fierce cries of "down with the axis" and "long live the king" which swept the country from end to end were ample warning to the government.

So now these liberty-loving folk of the fighting breed have raised to the throne their adored young King Peter—who still is a bit of this side of his majority of eighteen years—and are preparing to defend their independence. It is reported that he has designated his army chief of staff, General Dusan Simovic, to head his government—a significant appointment as indicating the determination of the Yugoslavs in this hour of crisis.

Whether London's jubilation is justified must depend on further clarification, especially as to the purposes of the new government.

"Bankers' Hours" and Unnecessarily Liberal Expense Funds Boost Taxes

Springfield, Ill., March 27—(AP)—"Bankers' hours" and unnecessarily generous automobile expense allowances for local government officials were listed today by the Taxpayers' Association of Illinois as examples of waste which the group said had been discovered in county administrations.

Thomas E. Fiske, executive secretary of the association, said studies by local taxpayers' groups resulted in recommendations of savings totaling $50,000 in Morgan county; $33,905 in the city of Champaign; $30,600 in the Elgin school system; $30,300 in McHenry county; $38,458 in Stephenson county, and $17,932 in DeKalb county.

In all units surveyed sources of savings were found in public purchasing, school, road and welfare functions, and general operating costs, Fiske said.

Soldiers at Camp Forrest are Short On All Armaments

Only One Unit of Whole
33rd Division Has Full Equipment

(Editor's Note—The first news letter from Co. A, 129th Infantry, from Camp Forrest, will be found on page 16 of this issue of The Telegraph.)

Camp Forrest, Tenn., Mar. 27—(AP)—Both infantry and field artillery regiments in training here are short on armaments—especially the newer weapons of modern warfare—a survey today showed, but authoritative army officers said the scarcity would not be felt if some necessary equipment were delivered within the next month.

The biggest need is for "fire control" equipment, instruments designed to aid in sighting the heavy field artillery guns.

The 123rd field artillery from Illinois is the single regiment with its full quota of weapons, 24 155mm Howitzers modernized with steel disc wheels and pneumatic tires for high speed travel. Each gun weighs 9,000 pounds.

The 75th brigade has eight of these weapons, used by both Tennessee regiments, the 181st and 191st field artillery. The brigade is slated to have 48 of these.

The 75th has but six 155mms, largest army field piece, of its allotted 24. The brigade has eight of its 32 allotted 75mm guns but none if its allotted thirty 37mm guns. Only 70 of the outfit's 102 fifty calibre machine guns are on hand.

But One Unit Equipped

In the 33rd division only the 123rd field artillery has all of its assigned guns. The 122nd and 124th field artillery regiments are to be equipped with 105mm Howitzers, but the army has not sent any here, even for demonstrations. The two regiments now have 75mm guns, 24 to a regiment.

General Samuel T. Lawton said that 81mm and 60mm howitzers, were being shipped here. The 35 antiquated mortars now on hand will be replaced.

The job of bringing in the newly-developed semi-automatic Garand rifles for the divisions 5,000 has barely begun. The division is scheduled to get 6,848 but now has only 1,839.

None of the 36 thirty calibre anti-tank machine guns have arrived.

There are more than enough 30 calibre Springfield rifles and .45 automatic pistols.

The 107th Ohio cavalry has its entire quota of 70 scout cars all most fully equipped with machine guns and radio.

Motor vehicles for all units have been coming in as rapidly as they are needed.

Indictment Confronts Detroit With Crisis in Government Operations

Detroit, March 27—(AP)—Indictment of a third city councilman—charged with bribe taking as were two of his associates—confronted Detroit today with a possible crisis in governmental operations because of depletions in the council's ranks.

Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson, in his capacity as one man grand jury, last night returned an indictment accusing Councilman Harry I. Dingeman of accepting $5,000 for his vote in an $8,300,000 housing project.

An immediate ouster move was begun by Prosecutor William E. Dowling and this, if successful along with similar actions against Councilmen John F. Hamilton and Robert G. Ewald, would reduce the nine man council to a membership of six.

Six council votes would be too few to override any veto from Mayor Edward J. Jeffries, and with action pending on the new city budget the mayor could exercise virtual control over its framing.

British-Aid-Cash Bill Made Law by Roosevelt Today

Signature Affixed to the Measure Aboard His
Yacht This Morn

Aboard U. S. S. Benson at Sea, March 27. — (AP) — President Roosevelt, aboard the yacht Potomac on a fishing-vacation cruise, signed the seven billion dollar British-aid bill at 9:50 a. m. CST, today.

His action makes the huge fund immediately available to establish the United States as the "arsenal" of nations fighting aggression.

Accelerating the record breaking speed with which congress voted the money, the bill was sent by airplane to the president's yacht cruising in Florida waters a few hours after legislative action was completed Tuesday. Bad weather, however, delayed delivery until today.

Even before the signature made the measure final, defense officials were bending to the task of channeling the funds into America's mushrooming munitions industry.

In its broad outlines, the bill earmarked the fund in the following categories and amounts:

Fund Earmarked

$1,343,000,000 for ordnance, armor and ammunition; $2,054,000,000 for such vitally needed weapons as bombing and pursuit planes; $362,000,000 for tanks, armored cars and motor vehicles; $629,000,000 for ships and all types of water craft; $752,000,000 for new plant facilities needed to turn out the materials; $200,000,000 for repairing British war vessels and other defense equipment; $1,350,000,000 for agricultural, industrial and other commodities, including such things as cotton and tobacco and $260,000,000 for miscellaneous military equipment and supplies.

The bill specifically would empower the president to transfer as much as 20 per cent from one category to another, although no category could be increased by such transfers more than 30 per cent.

Browder Enters Cell in U. S. Penitentiary

The Communist party's 1940 nominee for president surrendered and paid a $2,000 fine in Federal court in New York Tuesday, several weeks after the U. S. Supreme court upheld his conviction of using a fraudulently obtained passport.

This is wholly my own doing without anyone else knowing. You have been swell to us fellows and I hate to ask this favor but I know it would help the boys a great deal. Sincerely yours, A. Lonesome Buck Private of Co. A."

P. S.—Best wishes to you all and many thanks for the swell sendoff.

Allis Chalmers Co. Reopens: Blood is Spilled in Richmond

Federal Order is Answered: Plant Opens Today

BULLETIN

Milwaukee, March 27—(AP)—A spokesman for the Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co., which is under government order to reopen its strike-bound factory, reported 25 or 30 men reported for duty at 12:40 p. m. today.

Although striking CIO United Automobile Workers Union members were massed at the plant gates, there was no disorder.

Others of the 300 men called back to work were expected later in the day.

Milwaukee, March 27—(AP)—Striking production men at the Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co., were called back to work on orders of the government today but were threatened with loss of their jobs if they report before their union gives its sanction.

Complying with the edict of Secretary of Navy Knox and William S. Knudsen, OPM director, who insisted on immediate resumption of work on $45,000,000 in vital national defense contracts, the company notified 300 men to come to work this afternoon. The other 7,500 were scheduled for duty tomorrow.

At Pittsburgh, CIO President Philip Murray sent a telegram to Secretary Knox and Knudsen asking "by what powers" they were authorized to issue ultimatums in the dispute and charging that the company had refused to accept strike settlement proposals advanced by the OPM.

Harold Christoffel, president of local 248, CIO United Automobile Workers Union, told 1,500 strikers gathered in a field near the huge plant in suburban West Allis that "those who go (back to work) now will lose their jobs."

Only one group in the nation can call off this strike," Christoffel declared. "Only the Allis-Chalmers workers can do it. They will be given the opportunity and until then nobody goes to work."

"Of course, the company has the gates open. If any worker wants to

Thorngren Found Guilty by Jurors

A jury in Lee County court last evening returned a verdict finding Robert Thorngren of Coleta guilty of a charge of reckless driving. The case was submitted to the jury shortly after 5 o'clock and at 8:30 o'clock the verdict was delivered into court. Judge Grover Gehant excused the special venire until 10 o'clock on the morning of April 8.

Thorngren, 21-year-old stock truck driver, was tried on the reckless driving charge, the outgrowth of a head-on collision which occurred on U. S. route 30 about one mile west of Brechon's corners about 7 o'clock on the morning of Feb. 11. Marshall Parker of Amboy, was driving east on the highway, when the west bound stock truck crashed head-on into the sedan and Parker was instantly killed. About 20 minutes before the collision, a Lee Center school bus was forced from the highway by the same stock truck, testimony indicated, and Thorngren was said to have remarked that he fell asleep.

Law Provides Course

Knudsen and Knox dropped no hint of how they would proceed if their demand was disregarded. However, the selective service act provides that if a plant "refuses" to manufacture armament ordered by the secretaries of war or navy, the president may take possession of the factory and operate it

Eight Americans Among 15 Mission Workers Arrested by Japs in Korea

Tokyo, March 27—(AP)—Fifteen persons, including at least eight and perhaps 10 Americans, were reported under arrest in Korea today on charges of campaigning against Japan's war in China.

The Japanese foreign office assured U. S. embassy secretary H. M. Benninghoff, who presented a protest on behalf of Ambassador Joseph C. Grew, that a prompt and thorough investigation would be made.

Most of those said to have been arrested were believed to be missionaries.

U. S. Consul General O. Gaylord Marsh at Keijo was reported conferring with the authorities in Keijo on the charges against the Americans. First reports to Tokyo had said he himself was under arrest but these later were declared erroneous.

On Labor Front

(By The Associated Press)

The Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company announced today it would comply with a federal government demand that work be resumed on $45,000,000 worth of defense orders and notified 7,500 production workers to resume normal schedules tomorrow but Harold Christoffel, president of the striking CIO union, declared anyone returning to work before the union votes on the matter would lose his job.

The plant at Milwaukee closed January 22 when the CIO United Automobile Workers Union called a strike. In New York today "Iron Age" said the stoppage was affecting more than one third of all companies holding defense contracts.

Company officials said each worker was being notified by telegram to report for duty. The union had announced a meeting Saturday to consider the entire situation.

There was bloodshed this morning when the International Harvester Companies reopened its strike closed plant at Richmond, Ind.

City police and about 100 pickets fought at the gates of the International Harvester plant here this morning, state police raided the downtown headquarters of the CIO Farm Equipment Workers Organizing committee and arrested all those in the headquarters on assault and battery charges.

Those arrested included Clifford Kerr, president of the FEOWC local, and Robert Foley, an organizer.

Captain Walter Eckert, who led the state police, said about 160 of his men had been concentrated at Richmond in anticipation of disorders in connection with the reopening this morning of the Harvester plant, closed since the FEOWC called a strike Feb. 17.

Some state officers formed a double line on the sidewalk in front of a stairway leading to the second floor headquarters of the union while others entered the building and herded all those inside the headquarters to waiting state police cars.

A score or more of those taken away were blood-stained baggies.

Police Battle Pickets

The raid came shortly after the wild melee outside the Harvester plant where local police battled about a hundred pickets to clear a path for workers who responded to the company's published announcement that the plant would reopen this morning.

Kerr said in a statement handed to newsmen before the state police arrived:

"They are not going to get away with the brutal, undemocratic attack on the workers. The unions intend to fight. The combined efforts of the city administration, the police, the sheriff and the International Harvester company are not going to break this strike in

Missouri Governor

Says Opponent Got

25,000 Illegal Votes

Jefferson City, Mo., March 27—

(AP)—Governor Forrest C. Donnell parried a Democratic contest of his right to office today by charging that nearly 25,000 illegal votes were credited to his opponent, Lawrence McDaniel, in last November's election.

The Republican's claims were made in a bulky answer to the contest petition filed by McDaniel with the legislature last week. The legislature already has ordered a complete recount of the gubernatorial returns which gave Donnell a 3613-vote margin.

Donnell accused Democratic election officials of "fraud and unlawful acts" and charged that McDaniel supporters bought votes, tossed out Donnell ballots and used repeaters at the election.

He specifically challenged the ballots of 5,544 McDaniel voters on the grounds of alleged non-residence, faulty registrations and violation of the absentee voting law.

In addition, he charged that 18,373 ballots were miscounted in favor of McDaniel and 542 others were cast by persons who voted more than once.

Donnell claimed that 88 precincts in the state, including all in Boone county, had failed to provide secret voting facilities, and demanded that the legislature throw out the entire Boone county vote, which went against him 2 to 1.

The Tokyo newspaper Asahi said the missionaries circulated thousands of copies of "extremely seditious anti-nationalistic, anti-war prayer sentences and held anti-war prayer meetings throughout the peninsula."

Another Agency to Direct Defense is Being Considered

"Office of Emergency Management" Newest New Deal Scheme

Washington, March 27—(AP)—President Roosevelt, it was learned today, has under consideration an administrative realignment which would centralize national defense agencies under the Office of Emergency Management.

There would be four main divisions:

- 1—The present Office of Production Management:

- 2—A price control agency;
- 3—A "home defense" section;
- 4—An "economic defense" unit.

The process of consolidating all defense activities outside of war and navy departments is already under way, informed officials reported. They said Roosevelt probably would appoint an active director soon for the Office of Emergency Management to facilitate matters.

This man would not, they explained, be a "defense czar" but a defense coordinator whose chief job would be to speed up contacts between Roosevelt and the defense agencies.

Thus far the Office of Emergency Management has been little more than a legal name as a government body. It was created by presidential order nearly two years ago and is now headed nominally by William H. McReynolds, administrative assistant to the president.

Advisors Would Go

Centralization of defense work under the Office of Emergency Management, officials said, would mean the disappearance of the National Defense Advisory Commission, the original seven-member organization set up last May when the rearmament program began.

Already, it was pointed out, the Office of Emergency Management takes in the Office of Production Management, headed by William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman. Both originally were members of the NDAC. Knudsen for production and Hillman for labor. Edward R. Stettinius, the materials member also transferred to OPM.

Tentative plans, officials said, were to transfer the four remaining NDAC members to places in the projected new setup.

The proposed price control unit was expected by some officials to be given eventually executive and statutory powers to prevent rises in commodity prices which might be detrimental either to the defense program or the nation's economic condition.

Home Defense Scheme

In the home defense unit, officials planned to place a number of activities dealing with civilian morale, military morale, state and local governmental cooperation with the defense program, agricultural interests, and similar activities. Some of these tasks already have been undertaken by Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, particularly the problem of recreation in the vicinity of army camps.

The "economic defense" unit would coordinate various work of different departments, the "freezing" of foreign funds by the treasury, the prosecution of anti-trust cases helpful to the defense program by the justice department, commerce department attempts to prevent foreign patent monopolies from hindering defense, and similar activities by the securities commission, postoffice department and state department.

Hang-Overs Make Work of Induction Officers Difficult and Tardy

Springfield, Ill., March 27—(AP)—It seems they've had to pour an occasional draftee into the army, and selective service officials pointed out today that "wet" farewell parties are not a boon to national defense.

In a bulletin to local draft boards, state draft headquarters commented:

"Induction stations frequently encounter considerable difficulty with certain selectees who report for induction in the morning after they have consumed a quantity of liquor at going away parties. "It is frequently necessary to keep these men away from the others until they are in condition to take their physical examinations. This not only clogs up the induction routine but works an unfair hardship on the induction personnel and the other inductees who are reporting at the time."

Tuesday, March 25th is the last day to secure tickets for the Chicago Flower Show. Price 50c at Evening Telegraph or 75c at the gate.

Loans insured under the national housing act in 1940, for modernization and repair, totaled $276,262,761, an increase of 19 per cent over 1939.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they assume to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests." From the Farewell Address.

Labor and Capital

For many years there has been an erroneous idea that capital and labor have an irreconcilable conflict that can end only when one or the other is exterminated. Manifestly labor can not be exterminated, because it consists of men. Capital, on the other hand, is not so well understood. Uncritical persons may imagine it can be wiped out. Such folks have no clear understanding of the word "capital."

Newsman cartoonists are partly to blame for the idea that "capital" consists of a fat man wearing spats and a tall silk hat, with all his pockets bulging with money, bonds, stocks, deeds, mortgages and invoices. Likewise labor is depicted as a muscular fellow in overalls wearing on his head a paper cap folded square.

The false impression concerning both capital and labor arises from the fact that labor is depicted as a man and capital as a man. In fact, capital is a commodity and labor (here we stick our neck out) is a commodity.

Owners of both these commodities are men. Capital consists of "things", such as machines, buildings, piles of pig iron, railroad rails and dollars. The commodity known as labor consists of skill and energy. Both are essential in any civilized country.

The difference between the laboring man and the man who employs him is not labor is not brought about by design. There is no super-power that takes one man and puts him behind a desk as an executive, but decrees that another man must be a core maker for the rest of his life. A man's occupation depends much upon what he wants to develop and sell. His mind is not made up for him by some one else. In every community men find their own place. The fellow who gets a place as an executive is termed a wicked man because he handles capital. The fellow who works with a spade is sometimes looked down upon—by bigoted persons because he is a laboring man. The truth is that the man who handles capital and sits at a desk is selling what is between his ears while the man with the spade is selling energy, plus a degree of skill. If the compensation for sitting at a desk and doing mental acrobatics is higher than the wage offered for sawing cordwood, it is because of the immutable law of supply and demand. The supply of fellows willing to do mental acrobatics effectively is exceedingly small. The number of men temperamentally able to bear huge responsibilities is dangerously limited.

This imaginary fight between capital and labor was invented by Karl Marx, who never did a day's labor in his life and never was a capitalist either. He thought capitalism, as such, should be abolished, and when the Marxian Reds got control in Russia some twenty years ago they decided to wipe out capitalism.

Capitalism, as a system, consists of property, control of property, labor and management of labor. When the Reds got through they had changed things about, but they still had property, control of property, labor and management of labor. The principal changes were these: They ousted or killed the executives and put politicians in their places; they liquidated the owners and substituted state ownership. The principal result was that in more than twenty years of effort, the politicians haven't learned how to make the property produce the promised wealth. Labor, for which this great communist miracle was performed, is poorer even than in the czarist days.

To give an example of Russia's material poverty: As soon as the present war got under way Russia annexed portions of Finland, and all of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. These are very poor and very small Baltic states which Russia occupied prior to the World War.

After the most recent annexation, visitors in Russia noted that both the men and women appeared better dressed than usual. Upon inquiry he learned that "clothes were again available" as result of seizure of goods in the annexed Baltic states.

Under capitalism these tiny states had been able to produce clothing which Russia, with all its resources and population, had not been able to manufacture under communism.

In other words, the labor of Russia was supplied temporarily by the fruits of capitalism.

If our young men are to do our fighting, why can't they run the country?—Henry Ford, 78.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, March 26—The camp which the government will slip on business in the new war order has been devised. The master system was eased upon the aluminum industry in two easy lessons March 22 and 24. The Stettinus-controlled priorities board laid down on March 22 the vise within which the aluminum industry can operate. The Henderson price stabilization division followed up two days later with a statement fixing prices.

Both involved obscure industry techniques and, therefore, attracted little attention. Naturally the announcements did not officially pledge that the rigid skeleton formula was to be the test of the structure for the government controls over all vital industries in case of dire emergency or war. But those within the OPM who devised the system know it.

The complicated aluminum lugs and bolts point up to this simple edict:

Every business in the aluminum industry is told how much it can produce, when, for whom, and what can be charged for it. Indirectly this fixes the wage which workers in the industry can receive, the profits which can be made, by the business, and the dividends which may be paid by the companies, because all these eventualities hinge upon the few original factors that are fixed by the government.

To show you how completely it works out:

Every business in the aluminum industry is now required to let the priorities division of OPM pass on every production order and sale in bulk, once a month. An arbitrary list of who shall be served first is established.

All defense orders, including Britain's, are assigned the rating of A-10, which is prime. One percent of produced raw metal must be set aside each month as reserve. This reserve must be held to meet emergencies classified as B-1 the next classification. Use of aluminum for repair or replacement of manufacturing apparatus is rated B-2. Health and safety taxes B-3. A partial defense need of the product is classified B-3. Small orders (requiring less than 1,000 pounds of raw aluminum a month) are set at B-5. Small quality products (less than 2 pounds per $100 of final sales value) get B-6. Consumers who have no satisfactory substitutes are allowed B-7. Lowest is B-8, applying to aluminum products for which substitutes are available (glass jars for trays in refrigerators, for instance). The producers are required to give this precedence to all their work and no kidding.

Each producer is required to submit his orders to the priorities division once a month. Complaints will be heard by Dr. E. M. Hopkins, room 4527, Social Security Building, Washington. Dr. Hopkins devised the clamp.

The price vise was applied a little less forcefully by Leon Henderson, possibly because he was not as sure of his legal ground. He announced fixed prices for all aluminum raw products, except the virgin material which presumably can be controlled because the government directs the only producer, Mr. Mellon's Aluminum Company of America (may his shades lay easily in his grave). Henderson is acting under threat of government seizure of plants. He may need some further legal authority. The problem anything he requires from consumers is purely technical as guess will no doubt be granted.

Half the strait jacket has already been applied to machine tools, nickel, and manganese. Their production for defense use has been ordered, but not for private consumer activities. All in all, this directs every conceivable decision in the industry which was formerly left to the judgment of the individual business man, except how he shall part his hair.

Because it is considered undignified, bootblacks are not permitted to ply their trade in Rome.

PRESENT DAY FOOTBALL IS BETTER THAN GOOD OLD DAYS FIELDING YOST BELIEVES

Chicago, March 27—(AP)—The good old days in college football? Fielding H. Yost says they were all right, but take it from him, the game as played today is "the best we've ever had, the most interesting for the spectators and the kind the boys who play it enjoy most."

Michigan's grand old man of the gridiron sport is well qualified to express an opinion on the subject. On April 30 he will be 70 years old and next June 30, at the end of the academic year, he'll retire as Michigan athletic director, a post he has held two decades. And as Michigan's football coach for a quarter-century, he promised some of the greatest individual stars and teams in collegiate football history.

"Out side of the forward pass," Yost said, "football hasn't changed much over the years. Years ago we had a spinner play at Michigan. Today every team has about 90 of them, but there isn't much more difference in the fundamentals."

Yost, guest of honor last night at a banquet given by the Michigan club of Chicago, leaves the Michigan setup with a deep sense of personal pride in the part he played in building the great Wolverine athletic plant. During his 20-year term as athletic director, he said, total revenues from athletics were $8,742,145.

His greatest team, he says, was the 1925 eleven which lost to Northwestern 3 to 2. "I won't pick an all-time All American anymore, but names Jim Thorpe, Ted Koy, Willie Heston, Germany Schultz, Pudge Heffelfinger, Ernie Nevers, Bronko Nagurski and Tom Harmon as about as good as they ever come."

QUINCY CONTRATOR DIES
Quincy, Ill., March 27—(AP)—G. W. Menke, 85, owner of one of Quincy's largest contracting firms, the Menke Stone & Lime Co., died suddenly at the wheel of his automobile today.

The practical fountain pen was invented a little more than 50 years ago.

Churchill Thinks Yugoslav Regime Will Defy Hitler

London, March 27—(AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill predicted today that the new Yugoslav government would repudiate the country's pact with the axis.

"Though I don't know what will happen and one cannot be sure of anything," he said, "I believe that it is reasonable to expect that we shall have a government in Yugoslavia which will repudiate the pact signed the day before yesterday and will be ready to defend the honor and frontiers of Yugoslavia against aggression."

Churchill spoke at a Trades Union Congress luncheon.

Earlier he had told a meeting of the Conservative party central committee that Yugoslavia had "found its soul" in "revolution" in Belgrade.

Churchill also spoke of the battle of the Atlantic and assured his listeners that "before many months are passed I shall be able to declare to you that it has been decisively won."

He told the meeting that since "the dark hours" when the German Panzer divisions swept into France, Britain had "a series of notable victories."

Series of Victories
"First of all," he said, "there was the frustration of Hitler's invasion plan by the brilliant exploits of the RAF."

"Secondly, there was the frustration of his attempt to cow and terrorize the civil population of this country by ruthless air bombing."

"Thirdly, we have the destruction of Italian power and empire in Africa by our armies there x x x."

"But there is another supreme event more blessed than victories, namely the rising of the spirit of the great American nation and its ever more intimate association with the common cause."

"Much of that has been accomplished by the sentiments aroused in American breasts at the spectacle of courage and devotion shown by the simple and ordinary folk of this country in standing up to the fire of the enemy."

"Britain could, I believe, save herself for the time being. But it will take the combined efforts of the whole of the English speaking world to save mankind and Europe from the menace of Hitlerism and to open again the paths of progress to mankind."

Dixonite's Relatives Near Asphyxiation

Mrs. R. J. Drain and daughter Marietta this city and Mrs. W. Wright and son of Oregon, motored to Dubuque, Iowa, Sunday to visit the former's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Meister and son who are recovering from the effects of monoxide gas poisoning. The deadly gas escaped from a hot water heater which was inadvertently left burning in the home. The family is slowly recovering from the effects of the deadly fumes.

A pet terrier awakened Mr. Meister early Saturday morning, and he found his wife and son, both unconscious, lying in the hallway. He was almost overcome by the fumes, but managed to summon a physician and the latter called an inhalator squad, which after reviving the victims, removed them to a hospital.

Auto Dealers of Dixon Plan Big Show in 1942

Dixon automobile dealers who participated in the 1941 Auto Show last week end at the Dixon armory were reviewing the success of the event at a dinner meeting last evening at Peter Piper's. A financial statement of the exposition, submitted by Ben T. Shaw, secretary-treasurer of the Dixon Auto Show association, was read, and plans were discussed for a more elaborate show in 1942.

Attending the meeting were George Nettz, Francis Hemminger, Ed Newman, Carl Newman, R. A. Coffey, Wayne Williams, Earl R. Watts, Oscar Johnson, Frank Perry, A. V. Lund, and L. C. Shoaf. Mr. Shaw and Chester Barriage, chairman for the Auto Show, and O. K. Welty, one of the participating dealers, were unable to be present.

Hitler and Konoye in Exchange of Greetings

New York, March 27—(AP)—The German radio broadcast today the following exchange of congratulations between Adolf Hitler and Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye of Japan:

Konoye: "On the occasion of Yugoslavia's accession to the three power pact I take the liberty of expressing to your excellency my heartfelt congratulations. I sincerely rejoice at Germany's diplomatic success and am firmly convinced that this success will greatly contribute the new order in Europe."

Hitler: "I like you, am firmly convinced that a further important step has been taken."

Wilbur Shaw, Noted Race Driver, is Safe

Kansas City, March 27—(AP)—The T. W. A. radio control office received word today indicating Wilbur Shaw, noted race driver missing on a plane flight in the southwest had landed safely at Nacozari, Sonora, Mexico.

The operator said he had noted this message on a government teletype.

"Wilbur Shaw arrived OK in Nacozari, Sonora, Mexico, 10:30 P. M. March 26."

Shaw, winner of the Indianapolis speedway classic in 1937, 1939 and 1940, took off from Dallas, bound for El Paso, at 2:58 P. M. yesterday. The last report from him by radio at 7:21 P. M. last night was that he was lost over rough country with but 15 minutes supply of gasoline left.

AN OPEN LETTER To Senator George C. Dixon

Honorable George C. Dixon,
Illinois State Senator,
Capitol Building,
Springfield, Illinois.

Dear Sir:

During the past few weeks in every newspaper in this judicial district, you have been asked a number of questions concerning the propriety and good taste as well as the legality of your seeking to be elected circuit judge. These advertisements have been published at my own personal expense and I believe, for the benefit of the citizens of this circuit. These were published well in advance of election that you might have full opportunity to reply. Still you have not replied.

Just what is your attitude in this matter? Or is it a secret? Or do you think it is none of the public's business? Is it your attitude that your political party has such strength as to make you a judge regardless of your disqualification to act? Do you CARE what the citizens think as to these things?

You know that you were elected state senator to represent at Springfield the counties of DeKalb, Lee and Whiteside. You know that in January you received $5,000.00 from the state treasury plus $50.00 for postage and newspapers. You know that this was payment to you, cash on the barrel head and you know that it was payment to you IN ADVANCE for services which you have not yet rendered and which you have taken oath that you will render between now and the first of January 1943. You know that having collected this money in advance, there is no appropriation whereby any one else can be paid for serving the balance of your term, even if you should resign.

As a lawyer you also know, that our supreme court has held that the Governor need not accept a resignation if the public interest requires a man to stay in office, and this has been held in a number of cases, where public servants sought to resign to evade a plain duty, which would be your case if you attempted to resign, now, after being paid in advance.

So far as I have been able to learn, you have made no answer as to these matters, either publicly or privately. I believe the citizens and taxpayers are interested and that it would be worth your while spending some part of that $5,000.00 in public advertisements to answer this one. You still have plenty of time before election to answer. So far your attitude has generally been that these things are none of the public's business. Probably you think that the average voter does not pay attention to anything but the party label tacked onto a candidate. As to this you may possibly be mistaken.

You have plenty of time to answer. This charge was made weeks ago and I have no intention of raising any last minute charges without giving you time to answer. I hope you will satisfy the curiosity of a large and growing number of citizens.

Very truly yours,

Louis F. Reinhold

Candidate for Circuit Judge.

SERIAL STORY

DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS

BY EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY: Anthony kisses Bee and they realize they have fallen in love. Bee cannot understand this new thrill. Kiseas never meant so much before. Like happy children they swing in the park. "This is our world!" Bee knows it.

SO THIS IS LOVE

CHAPTER XV

"ARE you getting cold, sweet?" Anthony asked.

"Oh, no! I could stay here forever!" She slipped out of the swing and put her hands on his shoulders. "Tell me, Anthony, doesn't this frighten you a little? Everything's changed, now. The things you told me about wanting to be a merchant man, getting ahead . . . do you know that some part of the drive you gave them will be lost?"

"I mean, when you're in love, when you want to spend every minute of your time with someone, you—don't give up ambition all the strength and force you've got." It was difficult to put into words this feeling growing inside her that she wouldn't be good for Anthony.

"Don't be foolish, darling. Loving you will make me work 10 times harder." Yet, illogically, he hurried on, "Let's not even talk about work now. Let's sit by the lake."

There was a little slope of hillside, above the lake where people rowed on sunny afternoons. With its back against a clump of bushes, they found a bench. "We'll surely slide off!" she said.

"I'll hold you tight."

THE water below was still and black, and the bushes at its edge made soft, rustling noises in the wind. Beatrice let Anthony draw her head down to his shoulder. So they sat, content, until she murmured, "Funny, how we never thought of anything like this when we were fighting, in the store. You didn't think anything special about me then. I was just a new girl who was stubborn and dumb, wasn't I?"

No, you weren't. I wondered right away, what a girl with those eyes, and hair like yours, and that self-confident, lovely poise was doing in Budget Fashions.

"Bee, you simply don't belong there! You're like a flawless diamond on a dime store counter." His lips moved in her hair. "Did you think anything special when you first saw me?"

"I thought you were the most earnest young man I'd ever seen," she admitted. "I wondered how you kept your face so straight, listening to all those ridiculous customers. And I wondered"—she laughed deliciously—"I wondered if you were as smug and polite down inside."

"I usually swear in three languages, inside. Lucky I studied Spanish. It's useful for swearing."

"What's the other? French?"

"Yes!" They rocked with foolish merriment.

"Later," said Beatrice, "I wondered why you didn't simply punch Miss Dane in the nose. And still later, of course, I wondered how Huntington's could be so blind as to keep you down there. Now if they'd put you right in the front entrance, all the women would flock in! And if they made you general superintendent . . ."

"They ought to put you in the window, in that case. They'd never find anything half so lovely to exhibit."

"But I'm not for sale."

He became suddenly sober. "If you were, I couldn't pay the price tag. I've got my nerve, expecting you to care for me. Why, Bee, I'm just a chump. A penniless sucker. I haven't got a thing but two hands and a strong back and a lot of gall to even dare to want a girl like you."

He stared off into the darkness. "A girl like you shouldn't be working in the store. You don't belong there. You were made for lovely clothes and furs and jewels and a life like a dream. You were made to be cherished and spoiled with luxury."

Beatrice put her fingertips quickly against his mouth. "Don't!" She'd had all those things all her life, and they hadn't been enough.

Anthony caught her hands, kissed her palms. "You're too good for me."

"You don't know anything about me."

GUILT and a self-accusation that was strange to her, who had never blamed herself for anything, gnawed at her. She thought, wildly, that maybe if she broke down right now and told him the truth, he might understand. He loved her. It wouldn't seem underhanded and sneaky now, on this bench, with the sweet spell of tenderness still around them.

But the moment passed. She couldn't tell him. It would spoil everything. If, indeed, he believed her at all. She shivered.

"You are cold!" he accused. "Take my coat."

He bundled it around her masterfully. "Sure you're warm enough now? Maybe I should take you home."

"No. Not yet. I—I don't want this night ever to end."

"Tell me about yourself, Bee. It's funny, how little I know."

"I don't know anything about you, either," she said softly. "I wish I'd known you when you were a little boy. You must have been one of those heartbreakingly sober little boys, with big, innocent eyes. The kind that takes clocks apart and cures sick dogs."

"I was a revolting little boy. Always fighting. We lived in one tough mining town after another, and I had to fight, because I got there. My father was an engineer, and their fathers called him 'boss' . . ."

She thought bleakly, "I've been tagged sissy, too. Because my grandfather was boss."

Anthony was saying, his voice ragged, "My father died in a mine cave-in. I was in prep school. I came home and saw my mother go to pieces. After she went, if it hadn't been for the old man who was my father's best friend, I'd have been all alone."

"I'm alone," Beatrice told him. "I don't even remember my mother and father. My grandfather brought me up. He was everything to me, mother, father, and the best friend a girl ever had."

She wanted to show Grandfather to Anthony as she had known him. "He had a loud, blustering voice, Anthony. He'd shout at me, and wave his arms around, and say I'd never amount to a hill of beans. . . . But he was the kindest, sweetest man who ever lived."

"He was always doing things for other people. Swearing he didn't believe in charity, vowing he had his own troubles, couldn't be bothered. And all the time he had found a job for some unfortunate man, and sent money to a woman with children. You know, that sort of thing."

She saw again Grandfather's ruddy, lined face, his twinkling blue eyes. Her own eyes were wet. "He hated dressing up. He called it a lot of fol-de-rol. He'd sit around in his shirtsleeves, his thumbs stuck in his suspenders, with his shoes off."

She caught herself. Almost she had told Anthony of the disappointing countenance of the stuff English butler Grandfather was always threatening to fire.

CLOUDS scudded across the moon's face. The wind was stronger, and Beatrice's toes grew cold. But she didn't want this hour to end.

A policeman, whacking the bushes and throwing the beam of a powerful flashlight into odd corners in a businesslike inspection, drove them away at last.

"Ape!" muttered Anthony. They got up reluctantly.

People's Column

DIXON'S PRIDE AND SHAME

Dixon has every right to be proud of her people, like the grand old Loveland family, and ashamed of an element which has abused the priceless heritage which is Dixon's.

Every month for some time past the Townsend organization has been giving free entertainment in the Loveland Community House, entertainment which cost the merchants of our city money to sponsor and Townsend headquarters, money to display. And because children, who will be the future citizens of Dixon, so far forget themselves (and others' rights) and in a vulgar noisy manner, not only disrupted the audience but overran the whole beautiful building, because of this there was only one thing to do, discontinue the pleasure of the many, because of the selfishness of a few.

The instructions relative to the maintenance of this lovely building reads in part: "This is a home, treat it, use it, as you would your own home," and that is just what these spoiled children did, they are not made to obey at home or respect the rights and property of others, so it never occurs to them to do so elsewhere. Some one stated there should be police protection. Dixon's two beautiful theaters and many fine churches do not require a police guard. Why the Loveland Community House, when it embodies all of the good qualities of Dixon's finer homes, buildings and people?

I have heard several remarks: "Those Townsend pictures are the only ones I have seen for a long time. I just can't afford to go to the movies." The clubs of Dixon and the National Headquarters express their regrets. And to those members or friends of Townsend clubs, and the plan, who although they hold a police guard, are unable to gain admittance, because those persons less appreciative, secured available seats, we apologize.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass out 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give you the power to flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Weekly Food and Marketing Letter by Mrs. Emily M. Lautz for Dixon Telegraph Readers

There are beef eaters and Beef-eaters. Right now both types are mutually dependent and important—as folks from Palm Beach to Boston and West to the Pacific discuss "Ye Beefeaters of America."

Since last September, more than 25,000 people have contributed to the British American Ambulance Corps through a series of Beef-eaters' dinners, which have combined the picturesque and profitable. Like the majority of food inspirations, the idea for the benefit dinners originated with a woman, Mrs. Walter A. Deems, who holds the honorary commission of "Lieutenant" in the organization.

Everyone concedes that "A good dinner doth sharpen with while it softens the heart." Particularly is that true of a good roast beef dinner, plus genuine Yorkshire pudding, baked in the savory drippings from the splendid roast.

How does a Beefeaters' dinner differ from any ordinary roast beef dinner? There is Mrs. Deems' inspiration, for she visualized—and worked out the details to reproduce the traditional ceremony of bringing in and tasting the roast beef by men dressed in the famous uniforms—of Yeomen of the Guard.

The Yeomen of the Guard constitute the personal body guard of the King of England, and they earned the name of "Beefeaters" because of this historic ceremony of bringing in the royal beef to his Highness and solemnly tasting it. The Yeomen also are guardians of the Crown Jewels in the London Tower.

Decorative red uniforms, authentic to the smallest detail of white neck ruff and garters, are supplied for local celebrities in each city to wear as Yeomen of the Guard. Distinctive posters, menus and tickets hailing "Nobles and Gentles all" follow through with the "fancy dress" atmosphere.

A rolled roast would not so much as dare show its face at a Beefeaters' dinner. A stupendous rib roast, with all the ribs intact, is carried ceremoniously into the dining hall on a silver platter, escorted by the costumed Yeomen of the Guard, who march to music. The tasting ceremony follows the presentation of the meat to the head table. Music for the "March of the Beefeaters" was composed by Leo Dryer and Mrs. Deems wrote the lyrics.

Residents of Reading, Pa. seem heartily in favor of munching beef for ambulances, since they followed up the first successful dinner last September by a second Yeomen of the Guard party March 13, for which the meat order totaled 500 pounds.

Florida is holding a series of Beefeaters' dinners, which started January 27 in the Royal Worth Hotel in Palm Beach, when the principal speaker was Lord Marley, Deputy Speaker of the House of Lords. It might be said that the guests took a "flyer" in beef, since the meat for the benefit was flown especially from Chicago.

Local committees may vary the dinner in soup, relishes, vegetables and salad, but four items are "musts" on every Beefeaters' menu. Those are roast beef, Yorkshire pudding, a savory and a trifle. "The trifle," not living up to its name, has proved a heavy problem with feminine committees, who visualize it variously as assorted fruits, fruit and whipped cream, or fruit and sponge cake.

Says Mrs. Deems: "Any light dessert, such as a mousse, is a trifle."

Therefore the recent dinner at the Hotel Biltmore in New York City settled for a Peach Mousse, Piccadilly, with assorted cakes, followed by Gloucester Souffle (cheese savory).

And now comes an important dish that has been the subject of frequent questions in Cooking School—Yorkshire Pudding. Limited time at our school sessions prevents a detailed explanation of the best way to make this dish—and method is all important. As most of you know, the recipe is almost identical with the recipe for Popovers, and like this hot bread, the pudding must be beaten with vigor.

The average American recipe calls for 1 cup of flour with 1 cup liquid (usually milk), 1 or 2 eggs and salt. Expert chefs in hotels where hundreds of guests have been served at the Beefeaters' dinners have been testing American and English recipes for Yorkshire Pudding and have cooperated in developing a standard method.

Mrs. Deems knows all about Yorkshire Pudding, even though she was born in California, and she maintains that the texture is much better when the liquid is half milk and half water. Here is the recipe on file in her office at Ambulance Corps headquarters, 420 Lexington avenue, New York:

Yorkshire Pudding
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup cold water
Beat the egg thoroughly and add to it about half the flour, mixing with rotary beater. Add the rest of flour, sifted with salt, and mix well. Add the combined milk and water and beat thoroughly until all are smoothly combined. Let the mixture stand 2 hours. (This is the secret of good Yorkshire pudding, which seldom is revealed.)

If the roast is cooked on a rack, the pudding is baked under it, so that the meat drippings are caught, however here is the modern method:

Remove roast from oven and keep in warm place. Take 1/4 cup drippings from meat and place in hot 8 x 8 inch bread pan, or in a deep pie pan. The fat must be sizzling hot. Beat the pudding mixture again vigorously before pouring it into the sizzling fat. Bake 20 to 30 minutes in a very hot oven 450 degrees F. After pudding begins to brown, reduce heat to moderate 350 degrees F. and return roast to oven to reheat. Serves 6.

Yorkshire pudding waits for no man. It must be served as soon as taken from the oven, with gravy poured over it. It is not necessary to have a roast to enjoy this dish. Just put some meat fat or shortening in a deep pie pan and get it sputtering hot before pouring in the batter. For a firmer, American-style pudding, follow this method, using 1 cup sifted flour and 2 eggs.

WHOLESALE TREATS

Cherry Bread Pudding
Among the practical, easy-to-make recipes developed last month in connection with the annual drive to promote the sale of canned cherries, was this dessert:

1 No. 2 can pitted sour cherries
4 cups soft bread cubes
3 eggs
2 tablespoons butter
3 cups liquid (cherry juice and milk)

1 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
Butter a deep casserole or baking dish. Drain cherries and combine them with the soft bread cubes. Arrange cubes and cherries in alternate layers in casserole. Beat eggs slightly. Add sugar, cinnamon and cherry juice, plus enough milk to make a full 3 cups liquid. Pour this combination over the casserole. Dot the top with pieces of butter.

Bake 1 1/2 hours in a very slow oven (300 degrees F.). Serve hot with hard sauce or slightly whipped cream. Serves 8.

Mexican Eggs

No. 1—
1 pint cooked tomato
1/2 onion, chopped fine
1/2 cup butter
No. 2—

4 eggs
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon salt
Simmer the onion in the butter and combine with tomato, simmering together 30 minutes. (Part shortening and butter may be used.) Beat eggs and seasonings and stir into first mixture over very low heat. Stir constantly, continuing to cook mixture until it just thickens. Grated American cheese may be added just before serving on toast. Serves 6.

Grapefruit Custard Pie

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter, melted
Grated rind 1 orange
1 grapefruit, sections
1 cup milk
1 unbaked pastry shell
Separate the eggs. Beat yolk until light yellow and combine with sugar, flour and salt. Add melted butter and orange rind. Remove all white membrane from peeled grapefruit, divide into sections and chop sections to pulp. Add to mixture and beat until creamy. Stir in milk slowly. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry, and fold into mixture.

Line an 8 or 9 inch pie pan with pastry, building it up well on sides. Bake 10 minutes in hot oven 425 degrees F. Reduce temperature to moderate (350 degrees F.) and continue baking 20 to 25 minutes, or until custard is set.

With a large cookie cutter, cut rounds from three slices of bread for each crumpet. Spread rounds with softened butter. Stack in tiers of three on a buttered baking sheet. Place a spoonful of orange marmalade on top of each. Toast in hot oven 450 degrees F. about 10 minutes, or until edges of the "crumpets" have turned gold. A. & P. Introduces 'Enriched' Flour as Defense Help

Responding to the National Research Council's much-discussed recommendations for new standards of nutrition in white bread which the Council termed essential to the nation's health in meeting the demands of the defense effort—the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company today announced a new white loaf, enriched with Vitamin B1 and other vitamin and mineral factors to the nutritional level of wholewheat bread.

"This move," said Mr. J. P. Smith, Vice President of the Chicago Unit of the food chain's middle western division, "follows closely the intensified government interest in making these essential food elements more widely available on the national defense effort's civilian front."

The new loaf will be available in A & P stores throughout the Middle Western area.

Each pound of the company's "Marvel" brand white bread, Mr. Smith explained, will contain 450 International Units of the "morale-building" vitamin known to the public as B1, and also added quantities of the pellagra-preventive vitamin, and iron. Use of a large proportion of milk in the bread dough also provides calcium and riboflavin (Vitamin B2), which are essential to normal growth. These vitamin and mineral additions not only meet the minimum standards proposed by the National Research Council's Committee on Food and Nutrition, which acts in an advisory role to the National Defense Advisory Commission on nutritional needs, but makes this white bread the equal of average whole wheat bread in these vitamin and mineral factors, he said.

It was pointed out that heretofore much of the vitamin and mineral value of wheat has been lost in the milling process, because of American's preference for delicate, white bread. The result has been that although white bread has been an important staple food, it has been relatively low in certain minerals and vitamin of the "B" complex. The restoration of these elements, according to nutrition experts, makes white bread one of the housewife's richest food sources of these essential vitamins.

ONE OF COUNTLESS HUNDREDS OF SURPRISES

Baffled young mother! With a brand new baby in the family, she eyes her long shopping list, wondering whether The Budget can afford all the food items she needs. And then—she remembers the friendly advice of neighbors...

"There's a new kind of store in town you'll be wild about... Selling 2,000 articles in such huge quantities, all under one roof, all sharing one low store-keeping expense, it can afford to offer all sorts of shopping economies... It's the new A&P Super Market!"

Since milk is extra important now (the doctor had recommended an evaporated milk feeding formula) her first venture at her A&P Super Market is the section which displays "White House Evaporated Milk." What a surprise here! Her shopping list indicates she expected to pay a price higher than that of White House. My, she can save a little bit on every can!

But—can she afford the economy? Baby deserves the best! Then she remembers what a well-read friend had told her: that A&P maintains two of the largest milk plants in the heart of America's finest dairy country, which insures top quality evaporated milk at a saving... that A&P uses milk supplied by 80,000 cows in tested herds for White House, guards this milk through every manufacturing step. No wonder White House is accepted by the American Medical Association's Council on Foods, and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau!

And so White House becomes her first saving... but only her first saving. For as she wanders through the store, shopping list in hand, she encounters hundreds of surprises—hundreds of food products which save her a penny here and a few pennies there.

There's nothing surprising in the young mother's discovery. For more than 80 years A&P's one aim has been to develop ways of eliminating unnecessary expense in making and distributing foods... to the end that its Stores and Markets can provide more and better foods for more people for less money.

Today's great step forward in lowering food prices is the newest kind of store, the A&P Super Market. These "food department stores" offer you meats, groceries, fruits and vegetables, baked goods and dairy products... all under one roof. Through the elimination of many in-between costs and extra profits, we believe selling cost comes down to an all-time low. This means that prices are low throughout A&P Super Markets every day of the week. So, if you buy all your foods there, your bills will be less.* Try it and convince yourself—you'll find it's fun to go A&P Super Market!

*You gain nothing from "special bargains" when you are charged higher prices for other things to make up for them. At A&P Super Markets you get a low average price on all foods offered. Thus you keep your complete food bill low.

By Irving Berlin

White the storm clouds gather

Far across the sea,

Let us swear allegiance

To a land that's free,

Let us all be grateful

For a land so fair

As we raise our voices

In a solemn prayer.

God bless America,

Land that I love,

Stand beside her and guide her

Through the night with a light

Morris (the only Rock River conference selection); Bob Gustafson of West Rockford, Elvin Duhm of Sterling was accorded the highest honors of any North Central conference player when he was named forward on the second all-state team picked in the conference standings with 102 points.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Ray Herbert has given us some old papers which date back to the original strawberry blonde and the days before the war—both of em. In unwrapping some merchandise at the Massey hardware store Ray ran across some Toledo Daily Blades—dated Friday, October 22, 1909 and which will furnish us with some interesting items for days to come. The banner headline back in that time, lads, was "I'm Ready to Fight Johnson Tomorrow"—James J. Jeffries. The great pugilist surprised the fight world when he walked off the S. S. Lusitania minus his superfluous flesh and showing he had trained hard at Carlsbad. History has since marked James J. and the liner Lusitania off in the same book of tragedy.

SPECIAL BOWLING EVENT

Two teams selected from the leading bowlers of the Sterling high school intramural league will meet two similar teams from DeKalb high school's league in a special match here at the Dixon Recreation alleys at 4:30 this afternoon. The match had originally been scheduled for tomorrow afternoon. Those representing Sterling will be Kurt Granzow whose 170 average topped the league, Wayne Andreas, Harold Stone, Ed Bowers, Francis Orlovski, Jim Wink, Paul Overholser, Charles Miller, Clair Book and Don Adams.

BELVIDERE BOUNCES

That Belvidere rumor is still on the bounce and no one seems able to pin it down with any assurance. From the Boone county school comes the report of "nothing definite" in answer to a where-do-you-stand question. It is said that the school now awaits the April 12 election during which a school board will be selected and the course of the future determined. If Belvidere drops from the North Central conference the teams may play a "free lance" role in northern Illinois high school athletics for a time. Long distances of travel and the subsequent financial loss and a bid for membership in the conference by Ottawa are cited as reasons for Belvidere's current indecision.

KNIFE AND FORK CIRCUIT

Walter C. Knack, sponsor of the Knacks table tennis team which finished second in a close race in the final standings of the Dixon league, will entertain the paddle-whackers at a banquet, probably next Wednesday night.

Rockford Boxers Win In Charity Show Here

Western Boxers Win Over Eastern Golden Gloves

Chicago, March 27—(AP)—Western boxers stood out today as the best in the land on the basis of a 10 to 6 victory over the finest amateur talent of the east in the 14th annual New York-Chicago Golden Gloves contest before 19,305 spectators in the Chicago Stadium last night.

The westerners, coming from central and southwestern states, battled their way to victory in five of eight championship bouts, and in five of eight bouts involving alternates.

Thus the Chicago team maintained its record of never having lost in its hometown arena. The record to date is eight victories for the west, three for the east, and three ties in 14 years of competition.

The 16 bouts produced only one knockout but revealed three impressive stars. They were Ray Brown, a skinny Negro high school boy from Chicago; Dick Menchaca, a Mexican lad now living in Fort Worth, Texas, and Jack Haley, a 21-year-old red-headed Irish lad from Kansas City.

Brown turned out to be the most impressive boxer on the card although he appeared in an alternate 118 pound bout. He decisively defeated Johnny Aiello, of Wilmington, Del., a Golden Gloves veteran, jabbing and hooking his way to victory.

Decisive Victory
Menchaca also turned in a decisive victory over Lester McGowan, a baby-faced 18-year-old high school lad of Buffalo, N. Y., in the 118 pound championship class. Haley, feeling none too well before his engagement with Charles Davis, New York negro in the 126 pound division, was ordered to bed after whipping the New Yorker.

Diogenes Leon, born in San Juan, Puerto Rico, 18 years ago, won the championship of the 112 pound division by defeating Harold Dade of Chicago. Johnny Green, Buffalo, N. Y., high school lad defeated Tommy Campbell of Melrose, Ill., for the 135 pound honors. Bobby Burns, a high school lad of Fort Wayne, Ind., polished off Charles Burley, of Wilmington, Del., for the 147 pound championship and Charles Hayes, a high school student of Ferndale, Mich., defeated Berlie Lanier, a Philadelphia cook for the middle-weight title.

Timothy Still, a negro steel worker of Newark, N. J., polished off Clayton Worlds of Chicago, in the heavyweight championship bout.

Hezzie Williams of Chicago, triumphed over Louis Brooks, a steel worker of Wilmington, Del., in the lightweight class. The only knockout in the 16 bouts was scored by Al Tribuni of Wilmington, Del., in the alternate battle of the 160 pound class. He smashed Bob Satterfield of Chicago to the floor three times in the first minute.

TED LYONS IS ILL

Los Angeles, March 27—(AP)—Ted Lyons, Chicago White Sox pitcher, was confined to a hotel room with painful sinus infection today. He will be out of training about a week.

Trainer Elwood McReynolds' Team Defeats East Moline Leatherpushers in Three Out Of Five Matches Sponsored by Elks Lodge

Variety of Incidents Pepper Punching Program At Dixon Armory Before About 800 Fight Fans

In a completely bloodless warfare here at the Armory last night a team of Rockford Golden Gloves boxers defeated an East Moline crew in three of five bouts on a card sponsored by the Elks Charities, Dixon Lodge B. P. O. E.

A variety of incidents including one technical knockout, three decisions on points, a disqualified fighter, a broken rope and a "no dice" match peppered the program which began with zest, worked to a climax and tapered off without injury to any participant. About 800 persons saw the fights.

In the first bout Kieth Martin of East Moline won a three-round decision over Mike Sartino of Rockford in the 135-pound class. In the first round Martin displayed some wicked right jabs which had Sartino crouching but no serious blows were landed.

Although Martin didn't have the reach that the Rockford fighter possessed, he carried most of the fighting which featured some good toe-to-toe slugging in the second round when Martin landed several stinging head blows. Sartino landed a serious blow to the midriff in the third round but the East Moline leatherpusher countered with rapid head stings which had the Rockford boxer against the ropes.

Technical Knockout
In the second bout of the evening Bill Sangster of the East Moline team scored a technical knockout over Luke Alfano in 1:33 minutes of the second round of their 135-pound match. Sangster, a colored fighter who broke clean, had his opponent down for the rest of the fight.

Charles Davis, New York negro in the 126 pound division, was ordered to bed after whipping the New Yorker. Diogenes Leon, born in San Juan, Puerto Rico, 18 years ago, won the championship of the 112 pound division by defeating Harold Dade of Chicago. Johnny Green, Buffalo, N. Y., high school lad defeated Tommy Campbell of Melrose, Ill., for the 135 pound honors. Bobby Burns, a high school lad of Fort Wayne, Ind., polished off Charles Burley, of Wilmington, Del., for the 147 pound championship and Charles Hayes, a high school student of Ferndale, Mich., defeated Berlie Lanier, a Philadelphia cook for the middle-weight title.

Timothy Still, a negro steel worker of Newark, N. J., polished off Clayton Worlds of Chicago, in the heavyweight championship bout. Hezzie Williams of Chicago, triumphed over Louis Brooks, a steel worker of Wilmington, Del., in the lightweight class. The only knockout in the 16 bouts was scored by Al Tribuni of Wilmington, Del., in the alternate battle of the 160 pound class. He smashed Bob Satterfield of Chicago to the floor three times in the first minute.

The climax of the evening came when Tony Sartino of Rockford got a nasty clonk on the head when he fell out of the ring as a rope connection broke, but he came back to win a three-round decision over Art Ashby of East Moline. The accident happened after 20 seconds of the first round had elapsed. Following an examination by a doctor and a reconstruction of the ring, Sartino plowed in furiously with his opponent in a fast slugfest. He scored two knockdowns in the first round with heavy rights. The Rockford winner showed equal ability with his rights and left, but left himself defenseless in fighting against the ropes. Ashby made the contest a favorite with the fans with several good left jabs. No serious blows were exchanged in the third round until near the end when the Rockford fighter landed a good right to the head.

"No Contest"
The match between Frank Alonzo of Rockford and Harold Toney of East Moline in the heavyweight class which had been one of the anticipated events of the match was declared "no contest" when Trainer Elwood McReynolds of Rockford protested that the East Moline fighter was wearing 8 oz. gloves in violation of the Illinois Boxing Commission rule for heavyweight bouts. The Rockford boxer had been taking a severe rapping from the opponent before the fight was called and appeared almost defenseless.

Dale Harris of Rockford was given a referee's decision over Bob Cherich of East Moline in 1:45 of the first round of their match in the final bout of the evening. The Moline boxer was disqualified when he went down for the nine count early in the first round without a blow by Harris. No serious rap was landed in the short "battle."

Judges for the fights last night were Albert Peterson, Paul Potts and Harry Stephan. Nelson Lambert was the timekeeper and J. Fred Hofmann the announcer. Walter Knack was chairman of the Elks Charities committee which sponsored the bouts and his co-workers were Harry Beard and Grover Wilhelm.

Mr. Leifheit died five minutes after entering Rochelle hospital where he was taken after he was injured.

George Leifheit, son of George and Ella Leifheit, was born in Mendota Sept. 22, 1884. He attended the Mendota schools and was confirmed at St. John's Lutheran church by Rev. Carl Proehl. He was married to Vera Moss-holder in October, 1911. While living in Mendota Mr. Leifheit worked for the C. B. & Q. R. R. as car repairman and was transferred to Rochelle about twenty years ago.

Dixon Soldiers in Camp Forrest Like Tennessee Climate

All of Second Lieutenants of Co. A Have Been Transferred

By JAMES W. KLINE
(Telegraph Special Service)
Camp Forrest, Tenn., March 23—It is Sunday and cool as autumn in Illinois. Not uncomfortable, but chilly enough for coats. There certainly hasn't been any complaint about the Tennessee climate. It sprinkled a little last night, but outside of that we haven't had any rain. When it does come we will be ready for it.

Each company has had plenty of work cleaning up its particular area. The ground is bare and rough, and construction debris left by the contractors' employees has to be cleared away. Grass will be planted and a landscaping program is to be started that will make Camp Forrest more presentable.

The train trip south was enjoyed by all the men. It didn't seem long because we slept in Pullmans at night during the longest stretch of the ride.

The men of Company A are deeply grateful for the wonderful sendoff you gave us. We couldn't help but see the strained and worried looks on the faces of our friends and parents. There is apprehension in a soldier's heart too, and we thank you, to a man, for making a difficult job seem well worth the sacrifice.

Work Out Out

We detrained Thursday morning at 7 o'clock, and from then on our work was cut out for us. The personal baggage and equipment had to be hauled to our area, the barracks and mess hall and supply buildings had to be swept and scrubbed. Steel cots and bedding were issued to each man and after supper we were ready for a good night's sleep.

On Friday, catwalks were built and laid to and from the barracks and mess hall; clearing and grading, pulling stumps and getting all of the buildings clean inside and out for our permanent homes for some time to come. Saturday, we worked until noon and then attended to our personal tasks.

Today is Sunday and we all had breakfast and went to church. Church service is not mandatory but I don't think a Company A man was absent.

Through suggestive discipline, profanity and complaining are becoming almost extinct.

Co. Loses Lieutenants

Company A has lost all its second lieutenants: Frazer from Co. I, Taylor from Co. M; Halberg from regimental headquarters, Johnston from anti-tank company, Second Lieut. Rob Meppin has been transferred to Co. F; Roy Rodesch to Co. E; Orrin Peterson to Co. B; Captain Gus Wimpelberg is now S-2, plans and training officer for the 129th infantry. Lieut. Col. Sherwood Dixon visited Camp Forrest from Fort Benning, Ga.

Spade, our mascot, Sergeant Woodyatt's black dog, made the trip with the advance detail and is getting over a bad case of homesickness or something. Others answering sick call were: Private "Doc" Camery, slight eye injury; private, first class, George Infeld, injured finger. No one has been seriously sick or injured and we are getting tanned and our appetites are almost out of bounds.

Well, we see what happens next week.

A standard barrel as required by the U. S., must have a capacity of 7,056 cubic inches.

Iowa Woman Dies in Amboy Result of Route 30 Crash

Others Involved in Accident Saturday in Serious Condition

Coroner Frank Nangle of Paw Paw yesterday continued an inquest into the death of Mrs. Marcus Clark, 59, of Galt, Ia., who died in the Amboy hospital early in the morning from injuries received in a truck-automobile collision at the intersection of the Lee Center spur and U. S. route 30, Saturday morning until others involved in the fatal crash have recovered sufficiently to testify.

Mrs. Clark's skull was fractured and she suffered other injuries when the car she was driving was struck by a truck driven by Harold Montes, 36, Chicago.

Montes told Sheriff Gilbert Finch that his truck struck the Clark car from the rear. According to Montes, the automobile was stopped on the highway at the base of a hill and he was unable to avoid a collision.

Condition Serious

Mrs. Clark's husband, 65, and their nephew, Walter William Weir, 17, also were injured in the accident. Although both show improvement, hospital attendants said their condition was still serious.

Funeral services for Mrs. Clark will be held in Galt. Besides her husband she is survived by three sons and three daughters. Mr. and Mrs. Clark and young Weir were en route to visit relatives at Battle Creek, Mich., when the accident occurred.

Her death raised Lee county's 1941 automobile accident toll to three fatalities.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter McCoy were callers Saturday at the P. H. Morrissey home in Amboy.

Many from this vicinity attended the funeral of Mrs. Melvin Daum in Amboy last Saturday morning.
